TWF and the Oxbridge Women's Network present Reflections on Education by Mel Mrowiec of Harrow International School Hong Kong on Thursday, September 18, 2014

Mel Mrowiec will talk about:

- His career since graduating from Oxford
- The experience of launching Harrow in Hong Kong
- The philosophy and nature of education in schools today

About the Speaker

Mel Mrowiec was educated at Northgate Grammar School for Boys, Ipswich before going up to Christ Church, Oxford to read Geography and subsequently a Post Graduate Certificate in Education. The early part of his teaching career was in large comprehensive schools: his first post was at King James's School, Knaresborough, before he became Head of Sixth Form at the West Somerset School, Minehead. He moved to Harrow School, where, inter alia, he was appointed as Head of Geography and then House Master of Rendalls before becoming Deputy Head Master in 2004. In 2012, he became the founding Head Master of Harrow International School Hong Kong.
