

Dear TWF friends

Start With Why

"Having a sense of purpose is having a sense of self. A course to plot is a destination to hope for" – American author Bryant H. McGill

As the Lunar New Year starts, we felt inspired to take a step back from the bustle and din of the previous year and re-visit the fundamentals of why TWF is committed to building a gender equal Hong Kong. To do that, the TWF team held an offsite to re-connect with our 'why'.

The concept of 'why' is eloquently explained by motivational speaker and author Simon Sinek in his book and TED Talk Start With Why. He argues that every organisation knows 'what' they do and most know 'how' they do it. But surprisingly few know 'why' the organisation does what it does. The 'why' is not about making a profit; rather, the 'why' signifies your purpose, cause or belief. It also determines why your organisation exists and why your customers or supporters should care.

TWF PROGRAMME UPDATE

Girls Go Tech Alumni Programme Soft Launch

We were delighted to soft launch and showcase our Girls Go Tech (GGT) Alumni Programme. Representatives from the public, private and education sectors all appreciated the STEM Programme's integrated elements from gamification and the creative arts as well as career planning. A huge thank you to all of our partners for their support and commitment!

IN THE SPOTLIGHT

TWF CEO Speaks at Wah Yan High Table Dinner

On February 2, TWF CEO Fiona Nott gave a keynote speech for Wah Yan High Table Dinner 2019. Nearly 200 student leaders from 11 single sex schools gathered together to network and learn. Fiona spoke about the state of gender equality in Hong Kong, gender stereotypes and their impact, and ways in which students can take action to address some of these issues in their everyday lives.
